TEGO® Guard - Quick weather and long-lasting protection of your facade paint

Exterior facade coatings contribute to the decorative appearance as well as the protection of buildings.

The renovation of facades is not only expensive and time-consuming, but must also be well prepared, as the application depends on the weather conditions. The use of modern co-binders in facade paints enables the paint to be protected against rain and moisture at an early stage. This ensures that proper film formation can take place and the final characteristics can be achieved. Furthermore, the right choice of additive can reduce the minimum film forming temperature of the coating and thus further extend the application window.
